

ABSTRACT

[0050] A system including at least two processing units embedded on a chip able to communicate with each other and to generally independently control access to data from memory on the chip.

10

15

20